LARCENY OF COAL.—Yesterday morning James Haley complained before Justice. O'Keeffe that one George Ritchic had carried away some coal belonging to him from a railroad car on 17th street. Ritchie was arrested and sent to jail to await examination. Last evening the case came up before the Justice, and Ritchie was held in the sum of $25 to appear before the County Court to answer. It appears from the evidence that Ritchie had ordered a load of coal, which did not arrive as soon as expected. Upon going home wet he found the coul house empty, and took from the car a lump of coal valued at eight or nine cents, so that he could build a fire and dry his clothes. Mr. Haley had been annoyed for some time by having his coal carried away, and determined to make an example of

ON COUCH.

LETTER NO. XIV.

[An Extract from Dr. Hunter's Work or Pulmonary Maladies.]

It is a common thing for persons who apply to me in the first and second stages of Consumption to say when I inform Reduction of Prices. them of the condition of their lungs Doctor, it is impossible, I have not had any Cough yet. Doctor, so and so told me have cash to invest, to buy bargains at the great auction sale of clothing and dress goods, January 28th, at 1120 Main of thousands to the brink of the grave unawares, and, in most cases, is a flimsy excuse, a base subterfuge upon the part of such a physician to disguise from the patient his danger, as there are few physicians so ignorant of the characteristics of this malady, as not to know that, in mos cases, Cough does not come on until an ad

By placing one end of an instrumen called a Stethoscope on the chest of the patient and the other in my ears, I can learn where this formation or deposit of tubercle exists or is taking place, and what its extent is, by the sound made by the air breathed in and out. Many physicians possess an instrument of this kind, but there is vastly more difference between their ability to judge of the condition of the lungs and heart by its use than there is between the skill of performers upon musical instruments. A great many professed musicians can drum or blow out few simple pieces only, while a few can promptly and perfectly execute thou-sands. In like manner a great many physicians, in listening through this in strument, can barely detect that there is 'something wrong," while a very few living principally in the large cities and devoting their whole attention to this class of diseases, can detect promptly and interpret correctly all the differences and The river was stationary about 4 A.
